

OCCUPATIONAL THERAPY DOCTORATE

LEARN TO Live

LEARN TO HELP OTHERS LIVE FULLY

Prepare for a meaningful career in occupational therapy, helping people build the skills they need to live fuller, more independent lives.

At Roberts, you'll earn your doctorate while growing as a skilled, compassionate clinician grounded in faith and prepared to serve others well.

Choose from three full-time study formats designed to fit different lifestyles. With faculty mentorship and hands-on clinical experience, you'll be prepared to move confidently into your career.

HIGHLIGHTS

- Train in new specialized facilities, including a cadaver lab
- Learn in small, connected cohorts with personalized support from faculty mentors
- Explore how to treat the whole person - body, mind, spirit, and relationships

CAREER OUTLOOK

- Work in hospitals, clinics, schools, universities, private practice, and more
- Doctorally prepared OTs are more likely to pursue business ownership, higher education, leadership, and research opportunities (Smallfield et al., 2019).
- Job growth for OTs is projected at 18% from 2018 to 2028, which is much faster than average.*
- The median annual wage for occupational therapists is $86,280*

Graduates of the program will be eligible to sit for the national certification examination for the occupational therapist administered by the National Board for Certification in Occupational Therapy (NBCOT). After successful completion of this exam, the individual will be an Occupational Therapist, Registered (OTR). In addition, all states require licensure to practice; however, state licenses are usually based on the results of the NBCOT Certification Examination. A felony conviction may affect a graduate's ability to sit for the NBCOT certification examination or attain state licensure.
